

BRYAN DOMINATES CONVENTION; FORCES POLICIES AND IDEAS ON SEVERAL IMPORTANT VOTES TODAY

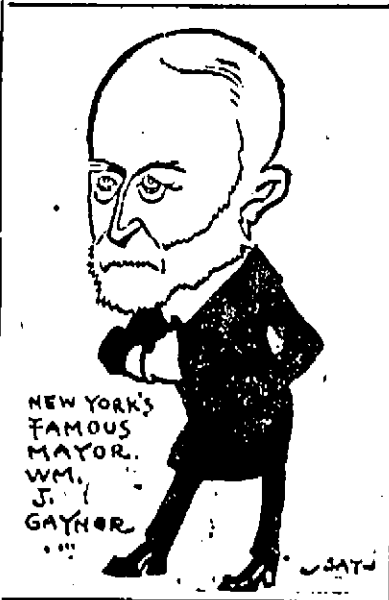

WILSON SECURES DISPUTED DELEGATIONS BY VOTE OF THE CONVENTION ON PER- LESS LEADER'S OR- DERS—NEW YORK VOTES AGAINST CLARK.

CONVENTION IN UPROAR

James Made Permanent Chairman and Convention Adjourned Until This Evening When It Is Expected Nominations Will Be Made and Vote Taken.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Baltimore, June 27.—The Bryan-Wilson progressives won another victory in the democratic convention today when the delegates overturned the report of the credentials committee and seated 10 Wilson delegates from South Dakota. The Wilson supporters claimed that the vote made the nomination of Woodrow Wilson practically certain. New York's 30 votes which yesterday went to the Clark-Harnon combination were today cast in a block for the Wilson delegates. The announcement of New York's vote was greeted with cheers from the Wilson delegates. Wisconsin's vote on the South Dakota contest was years 19; years 6; and one not voting. At three fifty four the convention adjourned until eight this evening to taken up with the convention ready to rally by acclamation the choice of Senator-elect Ollie M. James of Kentucky as permanent chairman. Mr. James was expected to make a brief speech. These things disposed of the delegates looked forward to the long series of seconding speeches and finally to the balloting on presidential candidates.

Chairman Parker touched the platform at 1:20 and conferred with parliamentarian Crisp and Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi leader of the Bryan-Wilson forces. Before the convention was called to minutes later the delegates were listening to the prayer of Rabbi A. Guttmacher. The prayer ended, the convention plunged into the South Dakota contest. Several speeches were made on each side. As the debate continued it was seen that the line between Clark forces on the one side and the Bryan-Wilson forces on the other would be sharply drawn. The vote was impatiently awaited and after the first two speeches arose from the floor, a vice presidential boom for Representative Henry of Texas appeared on the floor today.

Much disorder prevailed when Theodore A. Hall of California took the platform to close the debate for the majority report. "Over 7,000 votes on South Dakota were cast for Champ Clark," shouted Bell. "And for Wilson!" yelled the New Jersey delegates, and bedlam broke loose on the floor. Several Wilsons tried to question Bell. Finally Brower of Mississippi demanded: "Who received the majority of the democratic vote in South Dakota?" "Champ Clark," replied Bell. "Not Wilson, Wilson, Wilson," shouted the New Jersey crowd. A question hurled at Bell by ex-Governor Blanchard of Louisiana started a Wilson demonstration that began in the galleries. A series of Wilson lithographs were hoisted on poles and an organized cheer was heard.

The Clark people did not intend to let the Wilson people get away with all of the demonstration. They, too, hoisted banners proclaiming "Champ Clark our next president." The Underwood people soon put up their banners and joined in the demonstration.

"What is the issue?—The tariff," "What is the answer?—Underwood." This was one of the banners hung out by the Alabama delegation. The New Jersey delegation held aloft a big banner for Wilson. A banner forty feet long bearing the name "Massachusetts" appeared over the Massachusetts delegation. The Wilson supporters yelled loudly when a banner inscribed, "New York, Wilson and Win" appeared. The New Jersey delegation did not follow the banner.

The Missouri delegation was the first to follow the banner. The New Jersey delegation followed and soon the two rival crowds were parading through the aisles. The New York-Wilson banner was carried on to the floor by a speaker and pushed into the New York delegation. The New Jersey delegation, who had thus far taken no part in the demonstration, broke down on the standard-bearer and tore the banner down. It was recovered and carried to the New Jersey delegates, who shielded it. As the big Clark banner passed the New Jersey delegation the banners yelled, "Clark has always been a democrat."

The New Jersey delegates objected, but serious trouble was averted as the Clark band moved on. A woman with two Clark lithographs on a standard was escorted along in a parade of the speaker's adherents.

A Wilson delegate produced a long fishing rod with a portrait of the New Jersey governor at the hook and waved it. Clark and Wilson managers each charged the other with having "purchased" the galleries. It was clearly evident that the galleries held the scale beyond their tethered capacity. The demonstration lasted for twenty minutes. The official vote on the South Dakota case to adopt the minority re-that there were two records that will be presented to the American people in the coming campaign for their consideration.

One is the record of the republican party with promises betrayed arrogantly, and the other is the record of the democratic party of the promises faithfully and honestly kept. The republican party itself recognizing that President Taft had been unfaithful to the great mass of Americans, he said, refused by an honest majority of the convention to nominate him.

Mr. James told of the framing of the Underwood bill the passage through both houses, the vetoing of the measure by President Taft, and the failure to pass the bill over the veto because of the constitutional requirement of a two-thirds vote. Hence the adjournment of the convention until a choice was national convention beginning at noon today the name of the party's standard-bearer in the presidential contest may be known. Nominating speeches are in order some time during the day and as a reasonable limit has been put on the flow of the oratory, balloting should begin during the evening.

The Clark people are familiar with the situation today were of the opinion that the convention might continue voting until a chance was made, requiring a session extending well into the night. Many of the leaders thought it probable, however, that a recess would follow the first, or the second ballot to permit conferences looking to the limitation by withdrawal of candidates showing the least strength.

Friends of Woodrow Wilson approached the Clark tent with great confidence that they have yet won. They regarded the overwhelming of the unit by the convention, last night through coalition of the Bryan and Wilson forces as significant of the final outcome. Much importance was attached by them to a report that Mr. Bryan was prepared to throw his chips into Gov. Wilson's basket. Clark followers apparently think that Bryan has turned against the speaker for they show some feeling because the Nebraska man's strength was lined up with the Wilson crowd on the vote last night. Up to the actual opening of the convention, Mr. Bryan had treated both Clark and Wilson on equal terms as progressives.

If Mr. Bryan has determined to wage a fight for progressive principles with Gov. Wilson as his candidate, he has not made it known. The report of the credentials committee was the pending business before the convention today. Confusion in the hall compelled an adjournment last night before the minority report could be read and the entire matter was left over. Considerable debate is promised over the two reports. Encouraged by their success last night, the Wilson forces were prepared to fight the majority report prepared ten Clark delegates from South Dakota over ten Wilson delegates. They were confident that they could seat their man over the heads of the committee if Mr. Bryan would help. Senator-elect Ollie James of Kentucky will be introduced as permanent chairman after the roll is completed and the next business before the convention will be the nomination of a presidential candidate. A tremendous flow of eloquence is expected to be turned loose by enthusiastic adherents of various men in proposing their names. Nominating speeches will be permitted to go the limit but there is some sentiment in favor of limiting those who rise to second the nominations. Here are the men who practically PERSISTENCE must be practiced in all winning average campaigns. The average man will not allow one failure to stop him in anything and the same rule should apply to "want ads." That they are business ventures is demonstrated from the very fact that they are so widely used, and if they are practical for anyone, they are for you.

SOLICITOR-GENERAL RESIGNED POSITION

Frederick Lehmann, Who Has Taken Important Part in Recent Government Suits, Has Resigned.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, June 27.—Frederick W. Lehmann, solicitor-general of the United States, has placed his resignation in the hands of President Taft. It is not known that the resignation has been formally accepted, but it is known that his successor has practically been chosen.

Mr. Lehmann, who is a democrat, has been prominently mentioned for a place upon the supreme bench and has been received by many as a possibility for attorney-general if a democratic administration should come into power.

Today Mr. Lehmann absolutely refused to discuss his resignation. He probably will return to his home in St. Louis, where he was practicing law when President Taft appointed him to succeed the late Lloyd W. Bowers.

Mr. Lehmann completed the corporation tax case successfully in the supreme court last November. Mr. Bowers' death and born a large part of the preliminary work in the preparation of the government's suit against the Steel corporation, the prepared opinion upon which the National City company of New York proposed as a giant holding company of banks, decided to change its plans to meet the approval of the government.

William Marshall Bullitt of Louisville, Ky., is said to be under consideration for President Taft as a successor to Mr. Lehmann. Some officials here regard it as settled that the place has been offered to Mr. Bullitt and that he has accepted. It has not been decided when Mr. Lehmann's resignation is to become effective.

William Marshall Bullitt, of Louisville, Ky., will be named by President Taft to succeed Frederick W. Lehmann of St. Louis as solicitor general of the United States according to a cabinet officer who talked with the president.

BRYAN AND O'GORMAN TO WRITE PLATFORM

"Peerless Leader" Declared to Friends Today That It Would Be an "Essentially Progressive Document."

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Baltimore, June 27.—Mr. Bryan and Senator O'Gorman of New York, will write the platform of the democratic national convention. Mr. Bryan told some of his friends that the platform would be an "essentially progressive document."

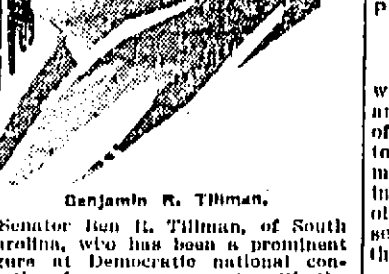

Special stress will be laid upon the tariff plan which will declare for a tariff for revenue only. The democratic national house of representatives will be commended for its work in the downward revision of the tariff schedule and the party will be pledged to continue its labors in this line.

The attitude of the president will be condemned and the republican party charged with a breach of faith failing to perform its promises of four years ago.

Referendum and recall will be inferentially endorsed as progressive measures, but the carrying out of these plans of government will be relegated to the party in the various states. Planks strongly endorsing an income tax, the direct election of senators and primary elections are confidently expected.

General Floyd King, an ex-member of Congress from Louisiana, urged an international system of highways in the general interest of the public of all states.

SENATOR TILLMAN AT THE CONVENTION

Senator Ben Tillman, of South Carolina, who has been a prominent figure at democratic national convention for many years, is with the democrats at Baltimore this week. It may be the last convention that the fiery southerner ever attends; his health has almost completely failed.

EXPECT TWO ARMIES WILL CLASH TODAY

Battle Between Rebels Entrenched at Bachimba, and Federal Forces Is Expected.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chihuahua, June 27.—The crisis in the Mexican revolution is at hand today. Fifteen thousand rebels well entrenched and fortified at Bachimba, fifty-six miles south of here, were expected today to engage the federal columns of equal strength, commanded by Gen. Huerta. At stake is the city of Chihuahua, for months under rebel control, and a vital point in northern Mexico. There is tremendous tension among foreigners, many of whom have raised their national flag over residence and business houses.

Artillery Ready. At federal army headquarters, Orizaba, Mex., June 27.—Gen. Huerta expects to have his artillery in position just ahead of Concho, some miles south of Bachimba, by noon today, when he plans to open the attack on the rebel stronghold.

CONGRESS PLANS TO RELIEVE SITUATION

Senate Makes First Move to End Difficulties Caused by Failure to Pass Supply Bills.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, D. C., June 27.—The senate today made the first move to relieve the government from the embarrassing situation rising from the failure of congress to pass many of the large supply bills. Despite the "morning business" during the democratic convention, the senate conferred to meet representatives of the house on the legislative appropriation bill.

Unless some action is taken on the army appropriation and navy appropriation bill before Monday, practically all the navy yards will lay off their men and army officers will be without pay. Government officials were confident today that congress would meet the emergency with a blanket resolution extending all present appropriations into the new year.

SECOND FRITCH TRIAL IS CALLED IN COURT

Detroit Physician Accused of Killing Mable Millman Through Criminal Operation—Two Years Ago.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Detroit, Mich., June 27.—The case of Dr. George A. Fritch, which attracted country-wide attention two years ago, was called in court today for its second trial. Dr. Fritch, who was a well known Detroit physician, was convicted of killing Mable Millman, through a criminal operation. The home of the Millman girl was in Ann Arbor. On September 6, 1909, after she had been missing from home for several weeks, her dismembered body was found in Grosse creek near this city. The medical examination revealed that she had been the victim of a criminal operation. On a charge furnished by a friend of the dead girl Dr. Fritch was arrested and charged with the crime. He was convicted on the testimony of a chauffeur who declared that Dr. Fritch, with whom he was well acquainted, had hired him for a midnight drive to dispose of the remains of the murdered girl, who had been sewed up and the parts of her body buried in several sacks. After Dr. Fritch had served more than a year in prison the state supreme court reversed the decision and granted a new trial of the case. Since the action of the supreme court the physician has been at liberty on bond. The chauffeur whose testimony convicted him has since disappeared, though the prosecuting attorney hopes to locate him and have him testify at the second trial.

CHAIRMANSHIP OFFERED TO SECRETARY TO PRESIDENT.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, June 27.—It became widely known at the White House today that Charles D. Miller, President Taft's secretary, can be chairman of the national republican committee if he enters to take the place.

BANK AT SHERBOYGAN WAS REOPENED FOR BUSINESS.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Sherboyan, June 27.—The German bank of this city, the largest in the state outside of Milwaukee, with about three million dollars in deposits, reopened for business this morning. No excitement attended the opening and the depositors are numerous.

PROFESSORS FAIL TO PAY TAX; FACE JAIL TERM.

Middleton, Conn., June 27.—May with examinations, Louis B. Gillette and Lory A. Holland, two professors of the Wesleyan University, neglected to pay the tax of $2.00 assessed on all male residents of the state and now in company with a dozen or more other citizens face the alternative of serving a term in the county jail for their delinquency.

CHICAGO LABOR LEADER REPORTED DYING TODAY.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, June 27.—Martin B. Madden, familiarly known as "Buckeye Madden" and whose power in Chicago among union workmen for years has been absolute, is reported to be dying in a sanitarium near Lake Villa of tuberculosis.

THWARTED A SCHEME TO OUST APPOINTEE

Acting Governor of Nevada Refused To Go Against Wishes of Governor To Place Politicians.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Carson, Nev., June 27.—Gov. Tasker L. Oddie, and George Wingfield, recently appointed but not formally qualified to fill the vacancy in the United States Senate caused by the death of Senator S. Nixon, crossed the boundaries of the state yesterday and Mr. Wingfield thereby nearly lost his chance to don his toga. That he did not was due to the refusal of Lt. Gov. Gilbert Wicks, a democrat, to accede to the wishes of a group of politicians who attempted to "railroad" a democrat into the Senate as a successor to the late Senator Nixon, a republican. Gov. Oddie and Mr. Wingfield are republicans.

Learning that the governor was out of the state, opponents of Wingfield hastily consulted attorneys and finding in their views that a vacancy in the Senate still existed, they thereupon called on Acting Gov. Ross, who promptly declined to act.

"I do not believe in snap judgments in political matters," said Ross. "Nor do I know of a democrat qualified for the position who would take advantage of the circumstance to defeat the governor's wishes. Why should we jockey with small advantage. We will elect a democrat this fall who will go to Washington with the solid vote of the people behind him."

A democratic legislature elected Senator Nixon in accordance with a direct preferential vote in which Nixon defeated Key Pittman.

INJURIES FATAL TO FIVE IN EXPLOSION

Five of Twenty-Three French Seamen Reported Dying Following Accident on Cruiser Yesterday.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Toulon, France, June 27.—Five of the twenty-three seamen in yesterday's accident on board the French armored cruiser, Jules Michelet, off Hyeres by the premature explosion of a six inch gun are dying in the naval hospital here.

The official inquiry into the explosion shows that there were two explosions. In the first thirteen men were hurled to the deck and frightfully burned and as soon as they had been conveyed on shore the firing was courageously resumed with the same gun under the direction of Admiral Bartram. Sources, commander of the first training ship division in the Mediterranean, once more were injured. Nearly all are young seamen. One man's arm was blown off. It is believed the explosions were due to the draft caused by the sudden closing of the breach of the gun which ignited from some sparks remaining from previous charges.

HIGHER STEEL TARIFF IS SOUGHT IN CANADA.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Ottawa, June 27.—Canadian steel interests have renewed application to the government for revision of the tariff on steel products. One of the principal reasons given is that the industry suffers from the "dumping" of the surplus produce of the United States steel corporation. A bounty or an increase in tariff is asked.

GOLFER LOSES LIFE IN RESCUE OF HIS CADDY.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Glen Cove, N. Y., June 27.—James Larly, a well known golfer, lost his life yesterday in going to the rescue of a nine year old caddy who had gotten into deep water in an attempt to retrieve a golf ball from a pond in the golf links here.

YOUNG PEOPLE ARE KILLED RIDING ON TRACK SPEEDER.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New Richmond, Wis., June 27.—New Richmond, aged 21, and Nora Lee, aged 18, were run down and instantly killed last night when a locomotive backing up ran into a track speeder on which the two were "joy-riding."

DIED TODAY OF INJURIES INFLICTED BY A HORSE.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Oakbrook, Wis., June 27.—John Maize, 57, married, a carpenter, died at St. Mary's hospital at three this morning, from the effects of injuries inflicted by a horse's hoof.

HARMON DECLARES HE WILL NOT WITHDRAW FROM RACE.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Columbus, O., June 27.—Gov. Judson Harmon was awaiting a telephone call from Baltimore today. "I positively have not withdrawn from the presidential race," he declared. "My name will be presented at Baltimore."

WEST VIRGINIA MAN IS STUNG TO DEATH BY BEES.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Parkersburg, W. Va., June 27.—Drury H. Badgley, a wealthy farmer residing at Pleasant Hill near here was attacked today by a swarm of bees which settled in his hair and beard and stung him to death.

DETROIT CAPITALIST KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT TODAY.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Detroit, Mich., June 27.—Edward A. Skoe, prominent local business man and capitalist, was instantly killed today when his auto ran into an embankment.

when the nomination speeches will be made and the vote probably taken before adjournment tonight.

Baltimore, June 27.—The delegates to the democratic national convention filed into the convention hall this morning prepared for a long and exciting session. All sorts of rumors were afloat as to deals and combinations during the forenoon, but not one of these seemed to have a trustworthy foundation.

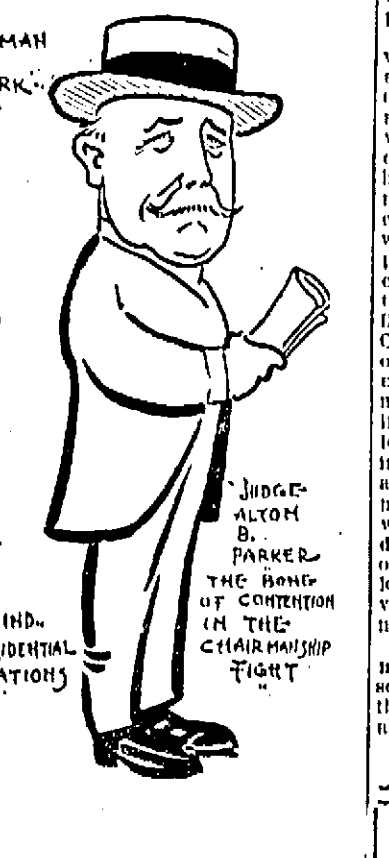

The supporters of Woodrow Wilson heartened by the so-called "Wilson-Bryan" victory last night in the fight for the abrogation of the unit rule in binding all the members of a state delegation to the views of a majority in the delegation, were claiming that the New Jersey governor would sweep the convention today and secure the nomination. They expressed the hope that Mr. Bryan might be induced to come out squarely for Wilson and thought that if this could be brought about ultimate victory was certain. There was talk of Mr. Bryan himself as the nominee today some of the so-called conservatives being quoted as saying that so long as the naming of a progressive seemed inevitable it might be just as well to have Mr. Bryan lead the fight for a fourth time.

Supporters of Champ Clark were claiming the nomination with as much outward confidence as ever, as they gathered for the day's session. "There has been and will be no defection from the Clark strength," read a statement put out from the speaker's headquarters.

"Dark Horse" talk died away a little today and while many candidates were mentioned there appeared to be a consensus of opinion that the fight lay among the supporters of Wilson, Clark and Bryan.

Mr. Bryan had not committed himself on any question of the presidency in any way up to the time the convention met.

Mrs. William Taft, wife of the president was the guest having a prominent place in the visitor gallery. She was entertained by Mrs. Hugh Wallace, wife of the delegate from the state of Washington. The order of business as the convention met was further consideration of the report of the committee on credentials. It was predicted that two or three hours might be consumed in disposing of the credentials matter. Then the report of the committee on permanent organization was scheduled to to 23 and Wilson men on their intention to carry the fight on the floor of the convention. Half an hour after the time set for the delegates the adjournment was called and the delegates were still conferring on the platform.

Dictum is an Old One.
When George Washington gave utterance to his famous dictum: "To be prepared for war is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace," he doubtless knew that everybody would recognize his improvement upon the saying which appears in Horace in this form: "In peace, as a wise man, he should make suitable preparation for war;" while Publius Syrus had put it in essentially the same manner: "We should provide in peace what we need in war."

Cows Tried for Murder.
Old documents of the middle ages tell us of numerous cases where animals were put on trial for serious offenses charged against them. For example, in 1370 three cows were tried for having killed a boy; the whole herd were arrested as accomplices. All were discharged but the guilty three, these being condemned to be executed. The sentence was pronounced by the duke of Burgundy. Our Dumb Animals.

A FAREWELL BANQUET HELD LAST EVENING
Members of the Rock County Bar United in Honoring Thos. S. Nolan, an Who Leaves For The West Shortly.

Members of the Rock County Bar, and a few invited guests, gathered at the Meyers Hotel last evening at seven to tender Thos. S. Nolan, a farewell banquet on the eve of his departure for the west, where he will make his future home. The banquet was served in the Ordinary, the tables being most tastefully decorated for the occasion with cut flowers and ferns.

A delicious menu was served as follows:

Salted Almonds	Olives	Radishes
Tomato Cream Soup	Wafers
Roast Tenderloin Fillet	Mushrooms
French Fried Potatoes
June Peas	Porter House Rolls
Combination Salad	Cheese Straws
Individual Short Cakes
Lemon Ice Cream	American Cheese

then called for the post prandial program which was most interesting, with frequent reference to Mr. Nolan both amiable and expressing regret at his departure. Among those who spoke were Stanley Dunwiddie, W. H. DeLong, H. W. Adams, H. John, M. Richmond of Evansville, Mr. Edgar, Judge Grimm, P. C. Grant, George G. Sutherland, Chas. C. Pierce, Mayor James A. Paterson, Judge Fildell, and A. E. Matheson closed the remarks for the evening with a neat presentation speech to Mr. Nolan of a handsome set of Washington Irving's works of ten volumes to which Mr. Nolan replied in a pleasing manner.

Those who were present were: Thos. S. Dunwiddie, Henry Carpenter, T. S. Howe, Arthur Fisher, Judge Lance, W. O. Newhouse, Frank Farnsworth, John Whitehead, G. H. Sutherland, Francis Grant, Chas. Pierce, Judge Fildell, John Cunningham, Frank Baines, A. E. Matheson, S. M. Smith, J. L. Fisher, David Atwood, Frank Smiley, Fred Clements, M. P. Rehrich, C. Thorpe, W. H. Dougherty, M. Edgar, L. A. APOLLO CLUB PLANS FINE ATTRACTIONS
Club Now on Firm Financial Basis
Insuring Splendid Artists Next Season—Arrange October Program.

The last season of the Apollo Club was the most successful one in the history of the club. The liberal support that "his" been accorded the club by its friends who love beautiful music has been such as to place the club on a sound financial footing. The club therefore is now in a stronger and better position to secure more of the big attractions than any previous season.

It is to be regretted that there is no auditorium in Janesville sufficiently large to accommodate all who should become members of the Apollo club. The library hall on account of the piano which is located in the hall, makes it practically the only available hall in which the regular concerts of the Apollo Club can be given. Therefore this limits the membership of the club to about two hundred members. No greater number of membership could be issued than will fill the comfortable seating capacity of the hall. Therefore it is imperative upon these not now members to speak for membership as early as possible.

The first recital of the season will be given early in October by two artists who are favorites with Janesville audiences: Alexander Zukowski, the great violinist, who has been first violinist in the Thomas orchestra for some years and the other artist is Miss Lillian Gallagher, soprano soloist. There is no one who heard Miss Gallagher sing the Rosary but what will remember the perfect execution given her and the encore she was obliged to respond to after singing the song.

Both of these artists are so well known that it is unnecessary to make more than a mere mention of the fact that they will give a recital in Janesville.

Spectators for the appearance of other great artists for other Apollo recitals are in progress and announcements will be made from time to time.

The wedding of Miss Martha Lueder at four o'clock yesterday afternoon at St. Paul's German Lutheran church, the Rev. C. J. Koerner reading the marriage ceremony. The bride was faultlessly attired in a gown of white muslin and wore a veil with orange blossoms. The couple were attended by Emma Lueder, sister of the bride, Miss Esther Albrecht, sister of the groom, Emil Potowski and Richard Ruppner. Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the groom's home on Western avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Albrecht will reside in Janesville where he is employed in the Rock River Woolen Mills.

MAKES SUGGESTION FOR AUCTION BILL
Following Wording For Sale of Property is Handled to the Gazette by a Prominent Republican.

In the mail of Colonel Roosevelt within the next day or two, the following suggestion for an auction bill is made by a Janesville republican. As it will probably not be given out for publication by the Oyster Bay Press agency it is printed below:

BIG CLOSING OUT SALE.
Grand Clearing Sale of Personal Property, July 4th, 1912.

Having decided to retire to private life, I, the undersigned, will offer for sale to the highest bidder at my residence on Salt Creek, on Thursday, July 1st, 1912, the following personal property belonging to me:

One elephant saddle, cowboy put on in fair condition except for broken on cinch.

One prod, to accompany saddle, somewhat worn from over use.

One big stick, handle broken.

One double set teeth, slightly worn, therabouts.

One sombrero, nearly new, but somewhat faded and battered.

One hobby-horse. This is my private saddle animal, it is of Judiciala, a horse of great spirit and action, sired by Discolored Imagination and dammed by Everybody. Has never been ridden by anyone but me, and only for campaign purposes. An valuable animal for those having aught of the spirit, as you never can tell what he will do. Consider him my most valuable asset.

One assorted vocabulary, including many unprintable adjectives. (Note: Stock of first person singular pronouns will be put up for sale in separate lots, 1000 in each lot.)

My policies, never been used. Formerly owned by W. J. Ryan.

One share stock in United States Steel Corporation (preferred). Given me by my friend and fellow patriot, Perkins.

One share stock in International Harvester Company (common). Given me by my friends and brother-in-law, McCormick.

One return ticket by the Bunk, Punk & Little R. Co. from Oblivion to Chicago. I used this ticket one way. (Note: This is the line that ran to St. Helena a hundred years ago.)

A large quantity of Teddy-bears, handkerchiefs, broken pieces, empty bottles, and other articles too numerous to mention.

Sale will take place regardless of weather or other act of providence. Hosts of food will be served at noon by my three cute cut-ups, Henry, Garfield and Phoebe. Dr. Lyman Abbott will pour the coffee.

Everybody invited, regardless of previous condition of servitude. This stuff must positively go! T. ROOSEVELT. BILL FLYNN, Prop. Auctioneer.

Ralph Bowden arrived home from Milwaukee Wednesday noon where he holds a responsible position in the office of the Milwaukee M. C. A.

Miss Julia Lockinger came home from Brookfield Tuesday evening and on Wednesday went to Monroe to spend a short time with her sister, Sylvia.

Miss Goble Hafford returned to Burlington Wednesday after a couple of weeks with her sister, Mrs. A. Koller.

The following parties went Wednesday to York Park where they attended a picnic given by the G. A. R. Posts of Janesville and Beloit: Wm. Taylor, S. C. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. John Egan, F. M. Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. George Wooster, Fred Ties, J. W. Wilson and Ezra Stuart.

Mrs. Ruby Krueger of Oshkosh, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Sutherland.

Miss Maud Fleck of Elm Grove, N. Dakota, arrived in Brodhead Wednesday for an extended visit with relatives.

E. W. Shaw has accepted a position with the American Clear company in Porto Rico, and will leave within a short time for that place.

BRYAN DOMINATES CONVENTION; FORCES POLICIES AND IDEAS

are certain to be put in nomination: Gov. Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey; Champ Clark of Missouri, speaker of the national house of representatives; Gov. Judson Harmon, of Ohio; Representative Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama.

Then there will be the "native son" candidates: Gov. Burke, of N. Dakota; Gov. Marshall of Indiana; Gov. Baldwin of Connecticut and probably Gov. Foss of Massachusetts.

Possibly Senator John Kern of Indiana, who ran on the Bryan ticket in 1908 may be placed in nomination, although Kern talk which was active early in the day yesterday subsided as Wilson stock began to soar upward.

Other men of prominence in their own states may be proposed. These are the "dark horses" so frequently spoken of when a possible slump of the avowed candidates is feared.

The change in the order of business in the convention in placing the adoption of the platform after the nomination of a ticket has made the work of the resolutions committee rolled up. Mr. Bryan is literally and comparatively easy. Instead of an all night session to hear the demands of kinds of faddists and idealists and to accomplish the more important work before it, the committee found itself able to adjourn last night at a reasonable hour with another day before it at least within which to shape up the platform. A number of the more important things under consideration have been turned over to individual members of sub-committees to work out.

With out discarded and sleeves rolled up, Mr. Bryan is literally and figuratively "sawing wood." He is helping to build up a good substantial platform but he is not disclosing the kind of wood that is being used. It is planned to fill the platform to the ticket, Mr. Bryan has no "canon" platform to work off on the committee and he has made it as plain as he could to the members of the committee that all he desired was that it should be one upon which the progressives could stand.

After the smoke of the first and second days' sessions have cleared away, Senator Luke Lea, the progressive young Tennessee stands revealed as the recognized leader of the progressive forces in the convention. Senator Lea is neither booming nor glooming any particular candidate for president but he has shown that he intends to leave nothing undone to secure the nomination of a real progressive.

There has been little gossip thus far on the subject of the vice-presidency. Probably no serious attention will be given to a running mate for the standard bearer until the latter has been selected.

Developments of the day are expected to clear the atmosphere completely. Some of those here predict that the convention will ballot for several days on the presidency, while others believe it now probable only one session will be necessary for a choice.

Meanwhile in Baltimore is doing the best it can to entertain the visiting delegates so well that they will want to prolong their stay. The weather has been hot, however and the delegates have shown a disposition to spend as little time in the crowded convention hall as possible.

On Tuesday night when the speaker's star was in the ascendency, the Clark "Horn Baw" song was heard everywhere drawing the war cry of all other candidates. Last night, news of the thirty-three minute demonstration for Wilson reached Baltimore street and the down town hotel district and set off the Wilson fireworks here.

Followers of the former president marched up and down the street, led by a band and burning red fire. It was their night of jubilation.

The effect of the action of the democratic convention last night in amending the rule making it binding upon delegates to adhere to the unit rule was the subject of wide discussion among delegates today. "The action of the convention in adopting the report of the committee on rules," said Charles R. Crisp, parliamentarian of the convention, "will be to bind to the unit rule all delegates selected by state conventions where the state applies the unit rule. Delegates who were elected by congressional districts or in preferential primaries will not be bound by the unit rule under the amendments to the rules."

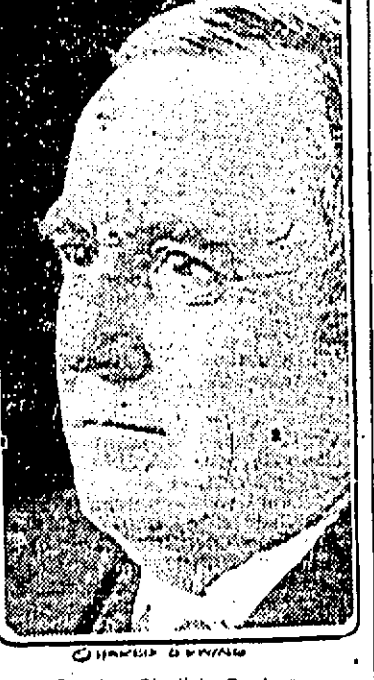

Mr. Bryan's presence at the resolution committee meeting today was delayed by the rush of visitors at the hotel. Colorless and careworn the Nebraska was surrounded in his room and given an enthusiastic reception.

"Has anything you can do for me?" inquired a newspaper man. "There will be something produced hourly and daily," replied Mr. Bryan, significantly. "Now I can't say anything more; I have been so very busy fighting that I have not had time to shave."

Frightened the Femines.
"Space out of a job? Why, I thought he was running a fashion department in a woman's magazine," "Yes, but he caused the magazine to lose so many subscribers, they fired him," "How in the world did that happen?" "Why, the lobster headed his column. Now wrinkles for women!"—The Wasp.

Have Little Chance.
In the long run idols have no chance in this country, whether they be beathen or popular.—N. Y. Post.

SENATOR GARDNER FOR JERSEY MAN

Senator Obadiah Gardner.

Obadiah Gardner, of Maine, who enjoys the distinction of being the second Democratic senator from his state in 50 years, is in Baltimore attending the big convention. He is for Woodrow Wilson and a progressive platform.

Evil of Worrying.
By constant worry the power of self-control is lost. The ability to be cheerful, courageous and sometimes even interesting, is gradually undermined. Eventually this affects the health, the appetite is banished and the digestion and probably the heart affected. The unwholesome shows in the face. Lines appear between the eyes, the eyes look dull, and the skin unhealthy and probably wrinkled.

Deserve No Pity.
I've never had any pity for conceited people, because I think they carry their comfort about with them.—George Eliot.

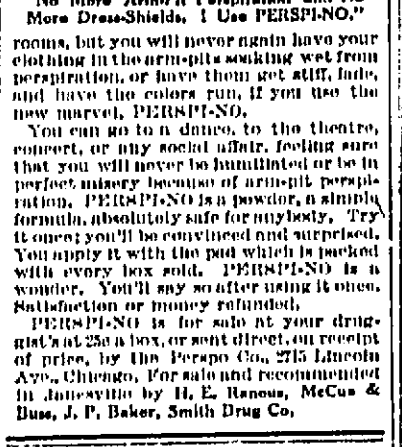

Rip Out Your Dress Shields—Fire 'Em Quick!

You Won't Need Them Any More—If You Use PERSPI-NO!

It's good-bye forever to dress shields. Good-bye to excessive unnatural perspiration of the armpits. You can wear any weight of clothing or live in hot stuffy rooms, but you will never again have your clothing in the armpits soaking wet from perspiration, or have them get stiff, hard, and have the colors run, if you use the new marvel, PERSPI-NO.

You can go to a dance, to the theatre, concert, or any social affair, feeling sure that you will never be humiliated or be in perfect misery because of armpit perspiration. PERSPI-NO is a powder, a simple, harmless, absolutely safe for anybody. Try it once; you'll be convinced and surprised. You apply it with the pad which is packed with every box sold. PERSPI-NO is a wonder. You'll say so after using it once. Satisfaction or money refunded.

PERSPI-NO is for sale at your druggist's at 25c a box, or sent direct, on receipt of price, by The Persap Co., 215 Lincoln Ave., Chicago. For sale and recommended in Janesville by H. E. Ransom, McCus & Bus, J. P. Baker, Smith Drug Co.

Are You Planning A Lake Trip This Summer

A Lake Trip this summer is included in the plans of a great many people, or, perhaps, it will constitute the vacation for a large number and in this connection THE GAZETTE TRAVEL BUREAU is in position to render valuable service, inasmuch as it has received the latest folders from almost every steamship company in the country.

In this literature are featured the places of interest on the route with length of trip, rate for return trip, or if it is desired to travel one way, and return by water, the expense of such a trip can also be ascertained. Whether the trip is to Mackinac and the Soo, from there to Niagara; or to Detroit, Cleveland, and Buffalo; or to the Soo returning by boat as far as the expense of the trip so far as transportation is concerned, there are also embodied in this literature the names of hotels with rates for board and room at the various cities and towns which the traveler may visit.

BRANCH OFFICE FOR GAZETTE AT BAKER & SON.
For the convenience of its patrons and the public generally, The Gazette has opened a branch office with the J. P. Baker & Son drug store, corner West Milwaukee and Franklin streets.

Copy for classified advertisements, orders for papers, subscriptions and matters of this nature, as well as items of news may be left at the Baker drug store, and will receive the same prompt attention as if they were sent direct to the office.

Either telephone the number or will reach the Baker drug store if it is desired to call them in connection with The Gazette's business.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

by
DAN McCARTY

Jack Johnson isn't the only fighter who occasionally gets into the courts. Ad Wolcott just now faces a possibility of losing a good deal of his hard earned in a law suit started against him in Los Angeles. George Hauer is the plaintiff, and he claims that Ad's auto ran him down last January causing the amputation of a leg. Hauer only wants $50,000.

"Kid" Wolfe of Cleveland, the rugged little bantamweight boxer, gives promise of being one of America's leading fighters in his class. He has all the attributes of a first class fighter, and being a willing student and quick to learn, he will probably develop into a star performer.

Col. Fred Storebeck, former amateur heavyweight champion of South Africa, has reached this country and is full of fight. He hopes to put every American heavyweight to sleep before he returns to his native land. Storebeck is the man who fought Bombardeur Walk, the English heavy weight, before the London sporting club. He stuck bravely to his task until both eyes were closed.

"I want to get accustomed to the American style of boxing and get acclimated," says Storebeck. "Then I am willing to meet all your white hopes. Of course, I should like to get another go at Bombardeur Walk, but I'm afraid there's not much chance of meeting him here. I tried to obtain a return match in London, but he would not meet me."

There may be a fan somewhere in the United States mean enough to envy the Washington team of the American league the pennant if they should win it this year. If there be no don't know him. The Washington fans have been the under dog, as long as the most of us remembered, one can remember. We'd like to see the worm—or rather the dog—turn. It's about time that cruel jest "Washington—first in war, first in peace, and last in the American league," were thrown into the discard, anyway.

Charley Matthews says that Hauer is just as good a batter as Hauer was, of the Pittsburgh Pirates. "Zimmerman has been coming a little every year," says Matty, "and now he has arrived, with the style and swing of a great batter. I believe he will be a wonder for several years."

Charley Hightower, Cornell's star pitcher, has been signed by Buffalo.

Here are the results of the Olympic games since their arrival sixteen years ago:
Athens, 1896—America, winner; England, second; Greece, third.
Paris, 1900—America, winner; England, second; Greece, third.
St. Louis, 1904—America, winner; Canada, second; Greece, third.
Athens, 1906—America, winner; Ireland, second; Sweden, third.
England, 1908—America, winner; England, second; Sweden, third.
America will win in 1912. That will make six successive victories.

Connie Mack will get another star recruit this fall from Baltimore in Outfielder Murphy. Murphy is batting around .400. He is a better batter than Feller, however.

FIELD CHAMPIONSHIP MEET AT EVANSTON

Contests in Central Association of American Athletic Union to be held on Northwestern Field Saturday.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Chicago, Ill., June 27.—The annual track and field championships of the Central Association, A. A. U., will be held Saturday on Northwestern field at Evanston. Many star athletes representing universities, colleges, high schools and athletic clubs in the middle West are expected to compete.

There will be thirteen events on the day's program, which will be run off in the following order: 120-yard hurdle, 100-yard dash, 100-yard dash, 100-yard dash, 100-yard dash, 100-yard dash, 100-yard dash, 100-yard dash, 100-yard dash, 100-yard dash, 100-yard dash, 100-yard dash, 100-yard dash.

HE MAY NOT COME BACK AFTER ALL

Jimmy Callahan.

At the beginning of the season, when the Chicago White Sox were at the head of the American league Jimmy Callahan was pointed to as a baseball man who could "come back." It is rare in baseball to find a man who has left the big leagues and returned to be successful. Callahan was regarded as an exception to the rule. As the White Sox steadily slide down in the averages these days, however, it begins to look as if Callahan might not be a "comeback" after all. Evidently he worked some of his best men too hard at the beginning of the season.

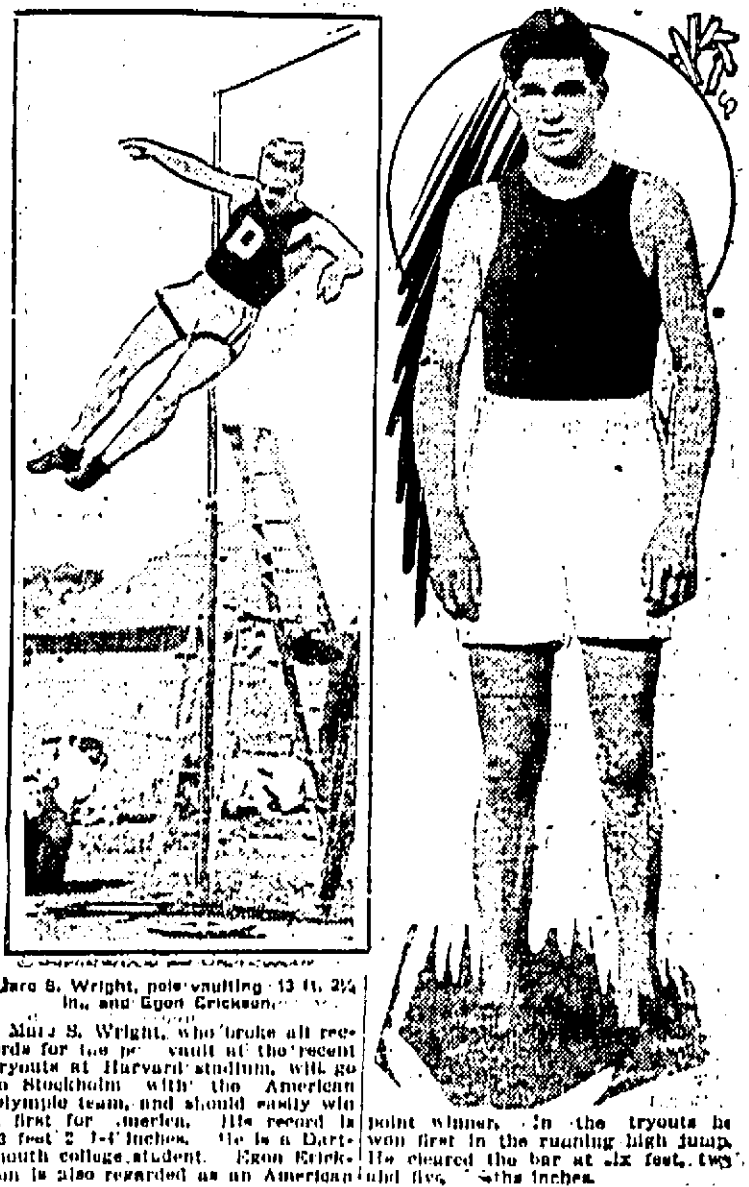

ATHLETICS' LEMON PLAYING IN SOUTH

Franklin Baker.

No man in the history of baseball ever showed up better in critical situations than does Franklin Baker, the king of the Philadelphia Athletics. In the world's series last year, Baker was one of the heroes of the Quaker City team. In the critical moment he was right on the job, and was a big factor in winning two games for Connie Mack. Baker was the man to wreck the record of the Washington club recently. It had won 17 straight in the fifth inning with two men out and the score 1 to 0 in the National's favor. Baker crashed out a home run hit, thus tying the score. The Athletics then won in the tenth.

THESE AMERICAN ATHLETES SHOULD BE POINT WINNERS AT THE OLYMPIC GAMES

Jimie S. Wright, pole vaulting 13 ft. 2 1/2 in. and 10 ft. 6 in.

Jimie S. Wright, who broke all records for the pole vault at the recent trials at Harvard stadium, will go to Stockholm with the American Olympic team, and should easily win a first for America. His record is 13 feet 2 1/2 inches. He is a Dartmouth college student. Egon Erickson is also regarded as an American point winner. In the tryouts he won first in the running high jump. He cleared the bar at six feet, two inches.

JANESVILLE NATIONALS TO PLAY DARIEN TEAM.

Local Baseball Players Hope to Retrive Past Defeat in Game Sunday.

In hope of retrieving the defeat suffered in their game with the Darien nine two weeks ago, the Janesville Nationals are scheduled for a return game at the park association diamond next Sunday afternoon.

The lineup for the local team is as follows: McCue, c; Butters, p; Crisler, 1b; Smith, 2b; J. Butters, ss; Fleming, 3b; Myer, lf; J. McCue, cf; Mulligan, rf.

Darien: Ives, c; Stoll, p; Hoedel, 1b; Morrissey, 2b; Iyer, ss; Sheldon, 3b; Thorpe, lf; Starnes, cf; Newman, rf.

LOCAL BALL TEAMS ARE IN BIG DEMAND

Flattering Offers Received by Amateur Aggregations for Fourth of July Games.

Janesville's ball teams are getting very popular and three of the leading teams of this city have received offers for games on 4th of July with big purses. The K. C. will play a strong team at Layden for a large purse and a very good game is looked for. The White Sox will journey to Edgerton and meet the Edgerton Sluggers, one of the fastest teams in the southern part of the state. The Cardinals have had many good offers but as yet they have not decided which one to take.

Vudor Porch Shades

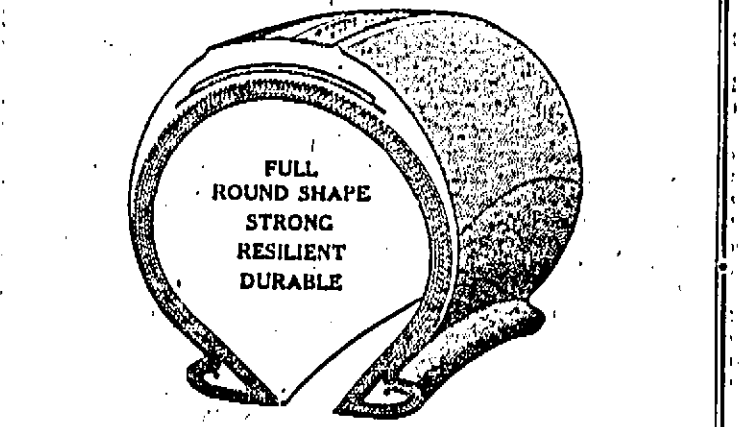

Make an outdoor living room of your porch by using Vudor Porch Shades.

In the production of Vudor Porch Shades, brains have been employed first to design a shade with the strips and the spaces between them so proportioned as to keep out the sun, but let in the breeze; to prevent outsiders from seeing in, while permitting insiders to see out at the same time making a shade that has stability and durability with lightness and beauty. Ordinary porches can be properly shaded by using from one to three or more Vudor Porch Shades. The regulation sizes are:

SOUGHT WIFE HERE; WAS ON WAY HOME

Niles, Michigan, Woman, Who Wandered Away Under Mental Aberration, Given Ticket Home By Stranger.

Out of sympathy for Mrs. T. M. Melvin of Niles, Michigan, who wandered to this city Tuesday night under a mental aberration and was unable to pay her fare home, a woman who was a stranger to her yesterday bought her a ticket to Niles and she left for there on the 5:10 p. m. train. Mrs. Melvin, to whom Mrs. Melvin sent a telegram yesterday morning as soon as she recovered her comprehension, arrived here late last night and was unable to find her. Through Fort Atkinson station agent at the North-western station, he learned that his wife had gone home, and he left Janesville at eight o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Melvin left her home in Niles, Tuesday morning, to do some shopping, and while suffering from a mental disorder left the city, first going to Chicago, and then coming to this city, where she registered at the Grand hotel as Miss Baker, her maiden name. After coming to herself and notifying her husband of her location by telegram, she made a second call at the telephone office to find if a reply had been sent. Not receiving one she left without giving any information of where she might be found. According to Station Agent Butler she spent most of the day at the station. One of the women there heard of her plight and after inquiring of the agent if there was an opportunity to do some charity, gave Mrs. Melvin money for her ticket. Mrs. Melvin is anxious to learn the name of the woman who befriended her wife that he may repay her. Mrs. Melvin had been acting strangely for a long time.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Patrols Post Law Secretary Lane of the Commercial club is sending out letters to the members of the organization asking that they unite in writing letters of protest to Senator Bourne against his bill which if passed would increase the present postal rates for packages.

Two Drunks Punished. Patrick White was sentenced to eight days in jail by Judge Field this morning after pleading guilty to a charge of drunkenness. Charles Maherty paid a fine of $3 and costs for the same offense.

Had Broken Hip. An elderly man by the name of Bass, residing in the town of Harmony was taken to the county hospital for care yesterday afternoon. He had been living alone and when found by Postmaster Anderson was suffering from a broken hip which was in a serious condition. He seemed unable to tell how he received the injury and was out of his head most of the time.

Automobile Parties. Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Dye, Hampstead, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Horgan of Milwaukee were members of automobile parties at the Grand hotel yesterday. H. E. Brown, E. Froeland, Mr. Van Epps and E. V. Epps of Portage were registered at the Myers hotel yesterday, coming in an auto.

Begin Laying Sewer. Sewer work was started today on Locust street. The city has received the new wagon for the street department, which was just recently ordered. The two horses which were just retired has been pressed into service on it. Repairs are being made to the brick pavement on Milwaukee street.

Eagles Session. There will be a regular session of the Janesville Aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles this evening at their hall. A full attendance is desired.

Taken to County Hospital. Fred Bass, a man about sixty years of age, who has been living alone on the Kehoe farm, was taken to the county hospital by Postmaster Anna Anderson yesterday afternoon, suffering with a broken hip. He could not tell how the accident happened, but it occurred some time the preceding afternoon in evening. Dr. Fember is attending him.

Start Work on Plow Shop. Ground will be broken for the new Janesville Machine Company plow shop next Monday. The old frame shop has been razed and the concrete floor is being torn up. Warden & Allen of Chicago, architects and contractors of the new building, have their representative Mr. N. A. Choate, already on the ground, and his men are building a tool house. Three car loads of steel are here. The building, which will be a steel and brick structure 146 feet square, is to be finished in 90 days time. Seventy-five to one hundred and fifty men will be given work.

Begin Rebuilding Doty Mill. Work has been started on the rebuilding of the Doty mill. A line of piles is being driven to support the reinforced concrete foundation on the river side. The building will consist of two stories and basement. From low water mark to the top of the first floor the walls will be of concrete and above that of brick 12 inches thick. W. H. Blair is the architect and Summers & Son have the contract. The mill is to be completed by October 1. The grain bins will be fireproof.

Will Continue Search. Search for the horse thieves who stole animals from the Nelson and Sheridan livery here on Sunday, will be continued, according to a statement made at the sheriff's office today. Clues to the whereabouts of the fellows are meager as they left the horses unhitched in the streets, one outside of Milwaukee, and the other in the business part of the city, where it was found by a night-watchman.

Credit or Cash.

The man with the high forehead was heard to remark to his companion in the twenty-first story elevator: "It is a positive delight, Sawyer, to meet a man you feel you can trust." "Oh, I don't know," returned Sawyer, who keeps a grocery shop, "I prefer the chap that pays cash."

Some People.

Some people hunt for work in about the same way that an optimist hunts for trouble.

PERSONAL MENTION.

BELOIT JOY RIDERS RUN AMUCK IN CITY

Four Boys in Intoxicated Condition, Run Machine into Buggy, Overturning It on Horse—Fines Are Paid.

Four Beloit joy-riders, all youths of tender age and in an intoxicated condition, were placed under arrest late last night after they had run their machine into a buggy on South River street and overturned it on the horse.

After spending the night in the police station they were arraigned before Judge Field this morning, pleaded guilty to charges of intoxication, and were fined $3 and costs each, with an alternative of six days in jail. Money to pay the fines was advanced by the father of Frank Stahlmecker of Manchester, one of the boys placed under arrest. The others gave the names of Vernon Adams, William Stevens, and Harry Sayre. Adams drove the car. Chief of Police Appleby notified Chief Quinn of Beloit as soon as the boys were taken into custody, and he in turn notified their parents.

No charge of careless driving was brought against Adams for the reason that there was no evidence to prove it. Before reaching the city they turned out of the road to let a team pass, and struck the front axle of the automobile. This made it difficult to steer the machine, and caused it to swerve all over the street. As soon as the machine was started on South River street it crashed into the buggy of Floyd Duffell, causing the accident mentioned. Duffell claims that $10 damage was done to his rig, and Mr. Stahlmecker promised to pay for what damage could be shown. Officer Brown was on hand when the accident happened. As he was on his vacation he was in plain clothes and not recognized as a patrolman. He was requested not to call a "cop" and after telling them that it would be unnecessary had them drive to the police station.

LOCAL TAILOR RETURNS FROM EASTERN STYLE CENTERS

Joe, Potomack Purchases a Few Thousand Dollars' Worth of Imported Cloths in Latest Fabric for Coming Season.

The fashion trend for the coming fall season has been already fully planned out. Expert designers have been at work for months and it has been but recently that their plans have been given out to the public. Mr. Potomack, who conducts the "Ladies' Tailoring" establishment on South Main street, has just returned from a trip to New York and other Eastern style centers where he has been learning all about the newest things in style. While Mr. Potomack receives his styles direct from Paris as soon as they are out, still he makes a regular trip to the East, each season, so as to be thoroughly familiar with the very latest ideas. The styles for the coming fall season will be ready about August 1st.

Mr. Potomack gives out the information that the skirts this season will be cut more generously than last year; the coats will be from 30 to 36 inches long; there will be a wealth of fancy weaves and fabrics to choose from. While away Mr. Potomack purchased a large line of imported cloths for fall wear. On his return he stopped at Chicago for a few days to look at the new styles there.

VERDICT FOR DEFENDANTS WAS BROUGHT IN BY JURY

Decides That Roesling Brothers Were Not Obligated to Accept and Pay for Goods Refused.

A verdict for the defendant was brought in by the jury drawn in the case of Miles P. Hixley versus Roesling Brothers, tried in the municipal court yesterday afternoon, and Judge Field awarded the defendants the costs of the action amounting to $25.25. The jury retired at four o'clock and brought in its verdict a half hour later. The action was brought by the plaintiff, a Cleveland, Ohio, jewelry dealer, to recover the sum of $192 and interest, which he alleged was owing him for a shipment of goods in June last year. The defendant refused to accept the goods, protesting that the contract of sale had been broken by a demand for payment before the time agreed upon in the contract.

MARRIAGE RESTRICTIONS TO DEQUEST OF FORTUNE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Mrs. Caroline Butterfield, in Leaving Estate to Granddaughter, Objects to Five Siblings. [BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, June 27.—Under the terms of the will of Mrs. Caroline Butterfield, her granddaughter, Miss Dorothy Ballard Smith, will not come into a fortune estimated to be more than $1,000,000 unless she abides by certain restrictions, named in the will, relating to her future as a married woman. Miss Smith may not marry any man to whom four of the five trustees object. Mentioned in the will are three brothers, and Miss Smith is prohibited from marrying any of them. This restriction, it is said, was due to a bitterness of feeling between Mrs. Butterfield and the mother of the three brothers. Nor may Miss Smith enter in a hasty marriage, but must consult her mother upon having matrimony in prospect. Mrs. Butterfield's will sets forth that she feared that the fortune might get into the possession of "dissipated and incompetent persons."

ENGINEER IS KILLED IN WRECK OF DIXIE FLYER

Score of Others Injured When Fast Train Was Derailed Near Martinton, Ill., Last Night.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, Ill., June 27.—Engineer John S. Kendrick of Danville, Ill., was killed, and a score of passengers severely shaken up last night when the Dixie flyer of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad was derailed while running at high speed near Martinton, Ill., sixty-eight miles south of Chicago. The locomotive turned over and the entire train left the track. A broken rail is believed to have caused the accident. The train left Chicago at 9:10 p. m., bound for Jacksonville, Fla., by way of Evansville, Ind. There were several hundred passengers aboard. The accident occurred shortly after 11 o'clock. A wrecking train from Watseka, ten miles north of Martinton, was hurried to the scene of the accident. Traffic was blocked on the line for several hours. Railroad officials report that none of the passengers were injured and all remained in the cars awaiting arrival of a train made up at Chicago to take them on.

At the top, Norman E. Mack, J. Hamilton Lewis, J. P. C. Talbot; at the bottom, John T. McGraw and William Randolph Hearst.

Here are some of the big figures at the Democratic convention. Norman E. Mack is chairman of the Democratic national committee. He's from Buffalo. J. Hamilton Lewis is a Chicago man and supporter of Champ Clark. He is one of the big Democrats of Illinois and is the Democratic candidate for senator in Illinois this year. J. P. C. Talbot is the national committeeman from Maryland. John T. McGraw is national committeeman from West Virginia. William R. Hearst, who hardly needs an introduction, is fighting tooth and nail for Clark.

STILL DEFENDS COURSE

As To His Attitude At The Chicago
Convention In Running For Temporary Chairman.

Governor McGovern is still on the defensive as to the attitude he took at the Chicago convention in permitting his name to be used in connection with the nomination for temporary chairman. Fearing that his after thought and mass of statistics were not properly received by the public and wishing to rehabilitate himself with the La Follette followers in the state, Governor McGovern has sent out to the press of the state the following explanation of his position. As this promise to be a campaign document during the coming gubernatorial campaign it is worth reading. He says in full:

"In addition to what I recently said to the people of Wisconsin through the public press concerning the disagreement in the Wisconsin delegation relative to my candidacy for the temporary chairmanship of the Chicago convention and in answer to some replies that have been called to my attention I desire opportunity to say a few words more.

"It has been urged that in the contest for control of the temporary organization at Chicago, the Wisconsin delegation should not have put forward a candidate for the chairmanship but should have remained neutral, taking sides with neither Taft nor Roosevelt. Those who make this suggestion evidently have not given the subject close thought; for a moment's reflection will show that unless the Wisconsin delegation placed a candidate of its own in the field it could not by any possibility remain neutral or avoid taking sides between Taft and Roosevelt. By action of the National Committee the Taft forces were in control of the convention.

The first duty of the Progressives therefore was to break this hold. The Wisconsin delegates were Progressive. For them to remain silent or to vote blank would be to acquiesce in the domination of the convention by the Standard bearer who sought Taft's renomination. Sitting silent or voting blank would result merely in withdrawing 26 Progressive delegates from the forces that were fighting the people's battle. No more eloquent issue between Progressives and Reactionaries was ever presented.

"Every man in the convention was called upon to stand either for or against Progressive ideas. Try hard as he might to shirk the responsibility he could not escape being counted upon one side or the other. For him to flinch or attempt to retreat would result only in advantage to the opposition. With the Reactionaries standing solidly together every blank or scattering vote cast by a Progressive was in effect a half vote for Senator Root.

"There was but one correct solution. By putting forward a candidate of their own to whose support the Progressives of the country might rally if they saw fit, the La Follette delegates opened a way for united action and at the same time avoided an embarrassing alliance with either of the opposing candidates. In this way only could the Progressives be united and the candidacy of Senator La Follette be promoted. Yet by a strange perversion of reasoning this plan was discarded by Mr. Hauser as something that might result advantageously to Colonel Roosevelt.

"Let us pause here to note a striking contrast. This week the same question arose in almost identical the same way at Baltimore. Committed as they were to the candidacy of Governor Wilson, what did the Progressive Democrats of Wisconsin do? Let Joe Davies, their chairman, tell you.

"There is a clear majority of Progressives in this committee who are committed to the candidacy of either Clark or Governor Wilson. If they stand united the people's cause is won and the Progressives control the temporary organization. If we are divided the Progressive cause falls. We therefore cast our support with Ollie James of Kentucky, even though he be the announced Clark candidate. We do this that the cause of the people and Progressive democracy shall not fail, or if it fails, the responsibility will be upon others and not upon us."

"Substitute the names of Senator La Follette and Colonel Roosevelt for Speaker Clark and Governor Wilson and Mr. Davies' reasoning applies as well to the contest at Chicago. Had I and the delegates who acted with me advocated, as Mr. Davies did, that in the interest of Progressive harmony and success we should support one of the Cummins' delegates for temporary chairman, on grounds of principle we should have been right, as Mr. Davies was. But there would nevertheless have been some cause, however slight, for Senator La Follette's advisors to say that such a course might bring advantage later to Senator Cummins.

"Had we with like reasoning requested the Wisconsin delegation to vote solidly for Senator Hauser or any other Roosevelt delegate for temporary chairman in order to prevent the organization of the convention by the Reactionaries, we would again have been right in principle, as Mr. Davies was. But again the objection might be made that there was danger that our candidate might in some way be sacrificed to the advantage of Colonel Roosevelt. But when we advocated in the interests of a Progressive victory the election of a La Follette delegate as temporary chairman the last vestige of reason for objection to the Progressives getting together vanished so far as Senator La Follette was concerned.

"If the election of such a candidate not only would the cause of Progressives be promoted but the candidacy of Senator La Follette would be advanced. I have no patience with the strained and distorted logic which can see a gain to Colonel Roosevelt or Senator Cummins as the outcome of such a program.

"It has been loosely suggested that there was another possible course. It is said that the Wisconsin delegation might have voted for me without putting me in nomination. To this brilliant solution of the problem I need only reply that if it was worth while voting for me it was worth while formally placing me in nomination. The objection to placing me in nomination at the outset appears to be that had this been done with the enthusiastic support and backing of the Wisconsin delegation, I should have been elected. My critics are thus reduced to the absurdity of favoring by candidacy in event I could not be elected and of opposing me if I could.

"Having proved from the convention record of the first roll call that had I been elected temporary chairman Senator La Follette would unquestionably have been in the saddle from the beginning to the end of the Chicago convention. I am met by the claim that at the time of the election of a temporary chairman the relative strength of the various candidates was not known.

"Passing by for the present the unconscious admission here made that the course I pursued was in fact the only proper one, but Mr. Hauser did not know better than to oppose it. I want to say that the statement simply is not true. Every man in the convention who thought about the subject of all knew before the convention met that Senator Cummins had 10 delegates and Senator La Follette 33; that 78 Taft delegates were fairly and honestly challenged; that outside of these contested delegates Roosevelt had in the neighborhood of 470; thus leaving Taft with a balance of approximately 450 to his credit.

"The facts in this behalf had all been carefully canvassed at the sessions of the national committee during the week preceding the convention. Then as well as now it was well known that of the 78 contested delegates at least those from Washington, Texas, and California—forty in all—rightfully belonged to Colonel Roosevelt. If they had been given to him the relative strength of Taft and Roosevelt would have been even more nearly balanced than at the beginning. Thus Senator La Follette would remain still more securely in control.

"But assuming that my critics did not then understand the situation let me observe that they do understand the situation now. Why then do they not now admit that they were wrong and that those they denounced as 'betrayers' and 'traitors' were right?"

"It is also said that Senator Root was elected before Wisconsin was reached upon the roll call. This suggestion is wholly irrelevant. What defeated me for the temporary chairmanship was not the scattering votes of half the Wisconsin delegation but the repudiation of my candidacy by Mr. Hauser, speaking in the name of Senator La Follette from the platform of the convention.

"His speech was made before a single vote was recorded and resulted in such demoralization of the Progressives and such solidification of the Taft forces that in control of the convention that no other result was possible. Had this speech not been delivered, or better still had Mr. Hauser the evening before refrained from moving a reconsideration of the vote by which the Wisconsin delegation unanimously decided to place me in nomination as the candidate of the La Follette forces for the temporary chairmanship, there can be no doubt whatever that I should have been elect.

"It was so conceded by reactionary delegates from the South who said they expected to elect their candidate for the temporary chairmanship because it was understood in advance that the Wisconsin delegation would vote blank. As it was Senator Root was elected by a majority of only 18. To say that the obstructive tactics of Mr. Hauser in preventing harmonious action the day before the convention and his speech of repudiation after I had been placed in nomination did not change 18 votes out of a total of 1075 is to attribute little influence indeed to what he did or said. Nor must it be forgotten that the convention was then in a fluid state and easily influenced either way.

"Surely if all the progressives combined could not have elected a temporary chairman, if Taft had a clean majority of the convention there is at once an end to the talk about La Follette holding the balance of power or having had the slightest chance of being nominated.

"But let us not fail to note the significant admission herein made by Mr. Hauser's apologists. Indeed they here give away their whole case. Their reply concedes the desirability of my election from the standpoint of Senator La Follette's interests and only asserts that it was impossible. Since when have Wisconsin Progressives faltered in attempting to do a wise and necessary thing merely because it appeared difficult?

"A word now concerning the talk of the vice presidency having been offered to me. I have said before what I now repeat that I never heard of this sort until after the election of Senator Root as temporary chairman.

Then those who opposed me started this rumor to fortify their own false position and to attribute a bad motive to me in place of the sound reasons they knew had actuated me. It is a piece of malicious slander and petty meanness such as now and then closes the mental depravity of small minds that masquerade in the garb of fair dealing. Not only was the vice presidency never offered to me directly or indirectly, expressly or by implication, but if it had been I should have promptly declined the offer.

"It is not a simple or easy thing at all to stand as a delegate in support of a candidate managed by one who continually suspects the loyalty and integrity of those who are working with him. But this difficult task I attempted to perform, protecting myself only by being in the open, declining all concealment and subterfuge.

"I want to Chicago to do two things: to advance the political principles in which I have always believed and if possible to help nominate Senator La Follette. In my mind the two objects harmonized perfectly. I believed then and I know now, as every intelligent man does, that Senator La Follette's candidacy could not be promoted by permitting the reactionary element of the party to capture the organization of the convention.

"It is to be regretted that having assisted Mr. Cochrane and myself and the other members of the delegation who acted with us as bitterly as they did during the early days of the convention our critics themselves with silence or evasive answers. Were they as manly as they pretend to be politically righteous they would either defend their original position or frankly admit that they are in error.

DINNER STORIES

Two old friends met in the smoking car on the way to business one morning.

"What's the matter with your wife, old man?" asked No. 1.

"Oh, she had a terrible shock yesterday!" came the reply.

"No. 1 looked sympathetic.

"Well, what happened?" he asked.

"Why, she was taking part in a rummage sale at the local institute.

It was a very warm day, and she took off her best hat and laid it down on a table.

"Yes?" queried No. 2.

"Well, some noddle of a woman sold it for a quarter."

wrote in return a jocosely letter. He replied in like terms. I wrote again, telling him a funny story. He sent me a funny story. I capped it, and in a short time got a Roland for my Oliver. Finally, I got an indignant letter, commencing: 'Sir—Are you aware that I am a woman?' I often blush under the bedclothes," he continued, "when I think of the stories I told that woman."

Mollers died while performing a part in one of his own plays. The Archbishop of Paris would not allow his body to be inhumed in consecrated ground. Therefore the king sent for the archbishop and expostulated with him, but he was obstinate and would not willingly comply with his majesty's request. The king desired to know how many feet deep the holy ground reached. The bishop replied, 'About eight.' 'Well, replied the king, 'I find there is no getting over your scruples; let his grave be dug twelve feet; that is four feet below your consecrated ground.'

General Description

This NEW WEBSTERIAN supplies the popular demand for a RELIABLE and CONVENIENT dictionary of the English language. The highest authorities have been consulted and eminent specialists have been brought together to make this book AUTHENTIC and COMPLETE in all respects.

While based upon the ORIGINAL work of NOAH WEBSTER, it is brought up to the PRESENT in every particular. All pronunciations are MODERN and are plainly indicated by phonetic spelling; the definitions are comprehensive though concise; the type is large and clear; each page carries a running key-word which shows the first and last word defined on that particular page, thus avoiding the use of a cumbersome thumb-index; instead of a cumbersome text pictures, the entire work is profusely illustrated with full-page color plates, monochrome, an diagraph charts; following the dictionary proper is a Reference Library, which in itself is a complete treasury of facts for everyday use.

The world's greatest authorities on the English language are to be found in American universities and colleges, and from these sources came the knowledge set forth in the NEW WEBSTERIAN. The editor-in-chief, Prof. Harry Thurston Peck, Ph. D., Litt. D., LL. D., has long been recognized as the foremost lexicographer and authority on language and literature. Among the editorial contributors are: Albert Stanburrough Cook, Ph. D., LL. D., professor in Yale University; John G. Hall, Ph. D., professor in the University of Pennsylvania and President of the American Philological Association; Prof. Theodore W. Koch, Ph. D., D. Sc., of the University of Michigan; Prof. Charles F. Johnson, A. M., Ph. D., of Trinity College; Prof. Donald L. Clark, A. B., of De Paul University; John R. P. Tatlock, Ph. D., 'eminent in English and in American literature'; and J. A. Joffe, A. M., consulting expert to the Congressional Library at Washington, D. C. A collection of 10,000 Synonyms and Antonyms has been arranged by Lillian H. Du Bois, Instructor in the Wharton Combined School of Philadelphia. Other important sections are ably edited by Prof. Frederick Taber Cooper, LL. B., Ph. D.; Prof. Robert Arrowsmith, Ph. D.; Prof. C. L. Menden, Ph. D.; and Robert Gordon Grant, A. M., Ph. D. Such an array of efficient authorities never before came together, and the grand result is a PERFECT dictionary of the English language.

PROMINENT DEMOCRATS ON THE SCENE AT BALTIMORE

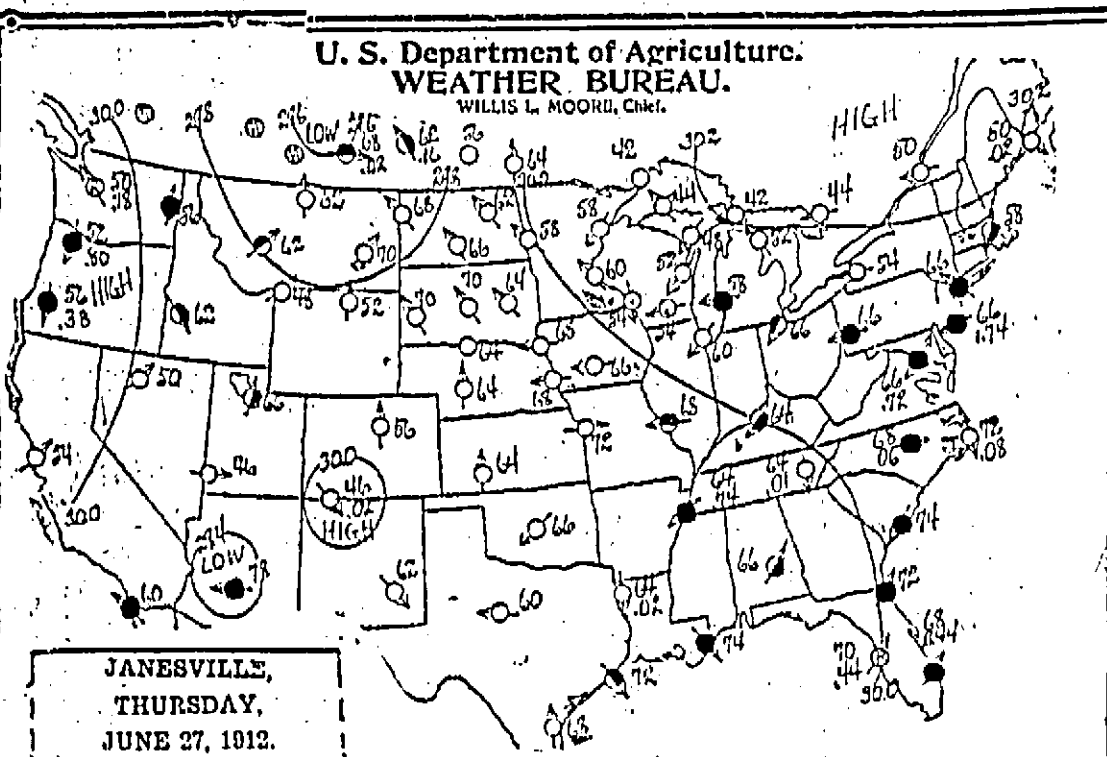

Top, left to right, Roger Sullivan, Dr. P. L. Hall, Senator-elect Vandam; bottom, Charles Murphy, Mrs. Anna Pitzer, James Ross and R. M. Johnston (lower right-hand corner).
One of the most important individuals at the Democratic national convention is Charles Murphy, the Tammany boss of New York. He holds 50 New York delegates in the hollow of his hand. James K. Vardaman, "the Gentleman from Mississippi," is a United States senator-elect and a delegate from his state. His long hair and pensive suit cause a flurry in the lobby of his hotel every time he appears. Mrs. Anna Pitzer is a sister of Mrs. Champ Clark and a delegate-at-large from Colorado. She will cast Colorado's twelve votes for her brother-in-law. Roger Sullivan is a delegate-at-large from Illinois, instructed for Champ Clark. He is one of Bryan's arch enemies. Dr. P. L. Hall and R. M. Johnston are national committeemen from Nebraska and Texas, respectively. James Ross, better known as "Jimmie" by his friends, hails from Columbus, Ohio, and is a Harman booster.

DEMOCRATIC WOMEN IN BALTIMORE TO SEE THE FIREWORKS; MUCH IN EVIDENCE IN THE GALLERIES AND ENJOY THE FUN

Left to right, Miss Ruby Tucker, Mrs. Thomas Taggart and Mrs. Norman E. Mack.
The ladies are very much in evidence at the Baltimore convention. In the galleries they are quite as numerous as the men, and enjoy the excitement of a big convention just as much as their brothers do. In the accompanying photograph are seen Miss Ruby Tucker, daughter of Guy B. Tucker, national committeeman from Arkansas; Mrs. Thomas Taggart, wife of the national committeeman from Indiana; and Mrs. Norman E. Mack, wife of the chairman of the Democratic national committee.

HEART AND HOME TALKS

BY BARBARA BOYD

One Way to Keep the Maid

The housewives of a certain suburban community who had been wrestling rather ineffectually with the servant girl problem at last hit upon a plan by which they have not only been able to keep their maids, but gradually to secure a much better class of workers. Judicious questioning found that two main objections to service in the suburbs were lowliness and lack of social pleasures. Armed with these two facts, and driven to desperation by their inability to keep maids from these drawbacks, several of the housewives got together and devised a plan to rescue these drawbacks. Then they invited the other householders of the community to join them. And though the plan was an experiment and didn't look very feasible, so great was their airtail, they determined to try it.

And it was nothing more nor less than providing for the maids a clubhouse, where they could gather in the evenings, also in the afternoons for an hour or so, if no work demanded them, and enjoy themselves as they pleased. They could meet their friends there, sew, chat, play games, dance, have any amusement that was right and proper.

A house was rented by the housekeepers of the community, simply out prettily furnished, and turned over to the maids, who elected their own board of management, with one of the women of the neighborhood as honorary member. The housekeepers put it up to them to run the place properly; and he said, there has never been any complaint. Indeed, the maids take great pride in their club, and are as anxious that it shall be all it ought to be as are the mistresses themselves.

The housewives went even further than this. After the dinner or supper work was over, they agreed to exact no further service from their helpers. It was up to the maid to get her evening work done as soon as she wanted to, and then she was free. Thus the girls could gather in their clubhouse at a reasonably early hour in the evening. If some social affair was going on, and the mistress needed her maid's help, she paid her extra for it.

Of course, the fairs of the clubhouse spread and girls became really anxious to get work in the suburb. It not only brought a better class of workers, and made them more satisfied, but it created a much better feeling than had ever existed before between mistress and maid. And many of the girls themselves acquired a certain dignity and self-respect which before had been lacking in them, since now they had an abiding place that belonged to them particularly and in which they could receive friends on a different footing from that of their place of employment.

The cost of running the clubhouse, when divided among the women backing it, added little individually to the expense for household help. And it was such a lessening of worry and of household confusion from constant change of servants or no servants at all, that it was well worth the additional cost.

Some such movement might be practicable in other neighborhoods. And if not worked out exactly like this, the thought may suggest some similar line of action that may prove helpful.

with the result that more and more men are being displaced by women at similar wages but doing exactly the same kind of work.

As for "speeding up" the woman—Woman has been speeding up all their lives, through all the generations. It is only the petted daughter of a generous rich man, who can afford to live softly and quietly and slowly; and even those, nowadays, refuse to be quiet, but are seeking diversions according to their nature.

The average society woman is a physical wreck when the season is over. The philanthropic woman of wealth wears herself into nervous tatters over her many undertakings. Women of wealth everywhere are taking up public matters either because of their blighness of heart or to get away from the deadly monotony of their lives.

Whatever any great good is accomplished you will see that the women interested have exerted all the energy that a man would have used, and more, because of masculine indifference or account of their voiceless condition; though when the cause they have mothered is found good, they poor hardworking men come forward to bear the burden of the honor and not the credit for having exercised all the strenuousity.

COOKERY REVIEWS.

Here are a few savory mouthfuls to be served on different occasions:

Take a good rich pastry, puff paste is the best, but the plain will do nicely. Cut in three-inch squares and put on each some cooked chicken, minced olives seasoned with butter and lemon juice. Use only a bit of the filling, fold over paste, pinch tight and bake. The nice things about these "bon bouches" is that so many different kinds of filling may be used, almost anything in the meat line. Ham shaved or chopped and mixed with finely sliced pickles; salmon and sour cucumber pickles chopped, and a little lemon juice or vinegar; roast mutton minced and mixed with currant jelly.

For a change and an appetizing sandwich filling, scrape a well-flavored apple, mix with French dressing which has been mixed with two tablespoonsful of olive oil, a dash of salt and pepper and a half tablespoonful of lemon juice; spread on the buttered bread. Brown bread is especially good for this sandwich and one slice may be spread with cream cheese and the other with the apple.

Pastry, left-overs are easily converted into toothsome mouthfuls like tarts, cheese straws and cakes to serve with tea. A delicious little accompaniment to salad is prepared by rolling the pastry, sprinkling thickly with grated rich cheese, fold and roll and sprinkle again, then cut in diamonds and bake. Serve either hot or cold with a salad.

Delicious little tarts may be made of the merest scraps, and after baking fill with any jelly or jam that is at hand.

Pastry baked around the wooden molds and filled with sweetened, flavored whipped cream is another nice dessert which may be prepared, all but the filling, and kept for several days.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

THE USE OF A VICE-PRESIDENT.

By A. W. MACY.

On April 4, 1841, a totally unexpected thing happened. For the first time in the history of the United States a president died in office. Exactly one month after his inauguration William Henry Harrison passed away. As a consequence the vice-president, John Tyler, was suddenly called to the head of the government. It was a novel situation, and for a time there seems to have been some doubt as to whether a vice-president so promoted should be considered a real president. The cabinet ministers, in officially notifying Tyler of the death of the president, addressed him as vice-president. Henry Clay, in writing to a friend, called Tyler a mere regent. John Quincy Adams thought his official title should be, not president, but "Vice-President, acting as President." Tyler, however, knew what a vice-president is for, and settled the matter at once and for all by styling himself president of the United States.

The Evening Chit-Chat

"NAUGHTY FLOOR" OR "NAUGHTY BABY"?

WHEN a baby tumbles down and bumps his head or his little nose, there are almost as many ways of dealing with this familiar catastrophe as there are different kinds of mothers. For instance, there is the mother who blames the floor, and the mother who tries to distract the baby's attention, and the mother who attempts to punish by telling baby that he is a naughty little boy, and how glad mother is that he isn't going to cry. All of these methods have their advantages. But there is one method of dealing with such happenings in which I can see no advantage and a great disadvantage. And that is the habit of blaming someone or something for the mishap which is possibly baby's misfortune, and possibly baby's fault. "Naughty floor!" says the mother who adopts this policy. "Baby spunk naughty floor for hitting baby's head." And forthwith she slaps the floor and urges the baby to do the same.

Or if baby jumps about in big sister's arms and loses his balance, the resulting tumble is blamed, in baby's presence, to big sister for letting baby fall.

Now perhaps you think I am unkind a good deal of fuss over a very little thing. Well, maybe it is a little thing in itself, but there is a very big principle behind it. The tendency to blame someone or something for the unpleasant happening which is really our own fault or just our misfortune, is strong enough in all of us. It doesn't need any encouragement. And the mother who teaches the baby to say "naughty floor" or "naughty sister" is encouraging this tendency.

A certain vigorous little baby who has just arrived at the "spunky" age has acquired a trick of throwing herself back on the floor, or in her mother's arms, or wherever she happens to be, when she doesn't like anything. At first her mother was constantly on guard to save baby from the results of her own temper, but she soon decided that that was not the best way. After that, when she knew the baby could not do herself any serious harm, she held back from interfering and deliberately allowed the child to bump or strike herself. Nor did she then say "naughty floor" or "naughty chair." On the contrary, she told the baby that that was what happened to babies when they were naughty and hung themselves about. Needless to say, baby soon learned her lesson.

The mother who says "naughty floor" is the mother who a few years later tells how the little boy next door got her Johnny into mischief, or how the little girl across the street led her little girl into a scrape.

The tendency to blame all our failures and troubles on other people, or on uncontrollable conditions, is one of the deadliest enemies to success. The only way to grow and achieve is to build on our failures and mishaps, and how can we do that if we won't acknowledge them? The sooner a child learns the lesson of his own responsibility for things that go wrong, the better. And remember, the baby who is old enough to comprehend "naughty floor" is also old enough to understand "careless baby."

Heart and Home Problems

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—Is an embroidered blouse put on the bottom of skirts with lace insertion above, or is lace put on the bottom? (2)—Are white slippers worn now? (3)—I love a girl of fifteen wear her hair in a curl for her age? (4)—Are white embroidered hand haws used? (5)—Is it proper for a young man to call on a girl whom he has just met? C. H. S.

(1)—Join an embroidered blouse to the skirt with lace edging. If you wish, (2)—Yes, that do not wear them with a dark skirt. They must be in harmony with your garments. (3)—The prettiest way for a girl of fifteen to wear her hair, is in a braid down her back. However, she may use the style many schoolgirls now adopt, of putting her hair in two braids and winding the braids about her head, with ribbon bows back of each ear. (4)—Yes. (5)—If he has asked and received permission from the girl with her parents' approval. If you are referring to the girl of fifteen, I hope she is not already thinking of a young man coming courtship. She is quite too young for beaux.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am planning a birthday party for the Fourth of July in honor of my brother and my little niece. Would you kindly tell me what to serve? What would be a good present for each? Are there any particular kinds for the Fourth of July? Thank you. READER.

Have your refreshments on the red, white and blue order, as much as possible. There will be cherries, red raspberries, red radishes, red whipped cream, white and red, white cake and white bread; and red, white and blue without, blue bachelors' buttons or forget-me-nots.

Make sandwiches of three slices of white bread, and one layer of white chicken meat and one layer of red radishes sliced so the red will show. To each sandwich, together with red, white and blue ribbon.

A white cake of several thin layers, with red-colored filling, would be suitable—the slices would look pretty on a blue plate. The top of the cake could be iced with red and white stripes.

Red raspberries with whipped cream heaped on top and a tiny flag stuck upright in the dish would "take" with your guests.

Serve lemonade with cherries floating in it.

HOW TO MAKE WHOLESOME PEANUT BUTTER.

Peanut butter, properly made, is both butter and meat, containing enough fat and protein, if an average quantity of bread and milk are included in the diet. But the ordinary peanut butter is not to be recommended, because it has been excessively "roasted," converting the fat into poisonous acids and coagulating the albumen so as to make it largely unassimilable and irritating. Dry shelled peanuts for several hours in an oven at a temperature of 155 F. No brown parts should appear. After removing the hulls, soak 12 hours or more, and grind through a fine food mill.

You've Heard of That Old Country Soft Soap—Now is Your First Chance to Test it

The formula for that wonderful green soft soap has never been outside of one family—the family that started making it in Northern Europe back in 1753 and has never sold it outside of Europe.

But now we have a great-grandson of the man who first made that famous soap as our Chief Chemist. He inherited the formula. His family still make it for European housewives. He makes it for American housewives.

So now—today—at your grocer's you can get the genuine soft green soap of the Old Countries.

Old Country GREEN SOAP

Genuine Old Country Green Soap is an all-purpose soap. A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS

Edna K. Wooley

An anti-suffragist, Mrs. Grace Duffield Goodwin has written a book called "Anti-Suffrage" which is now on the market.

Among its objections to woman's suffrage Mrs. Goodwin discusses the matter of equal pay for equal work.

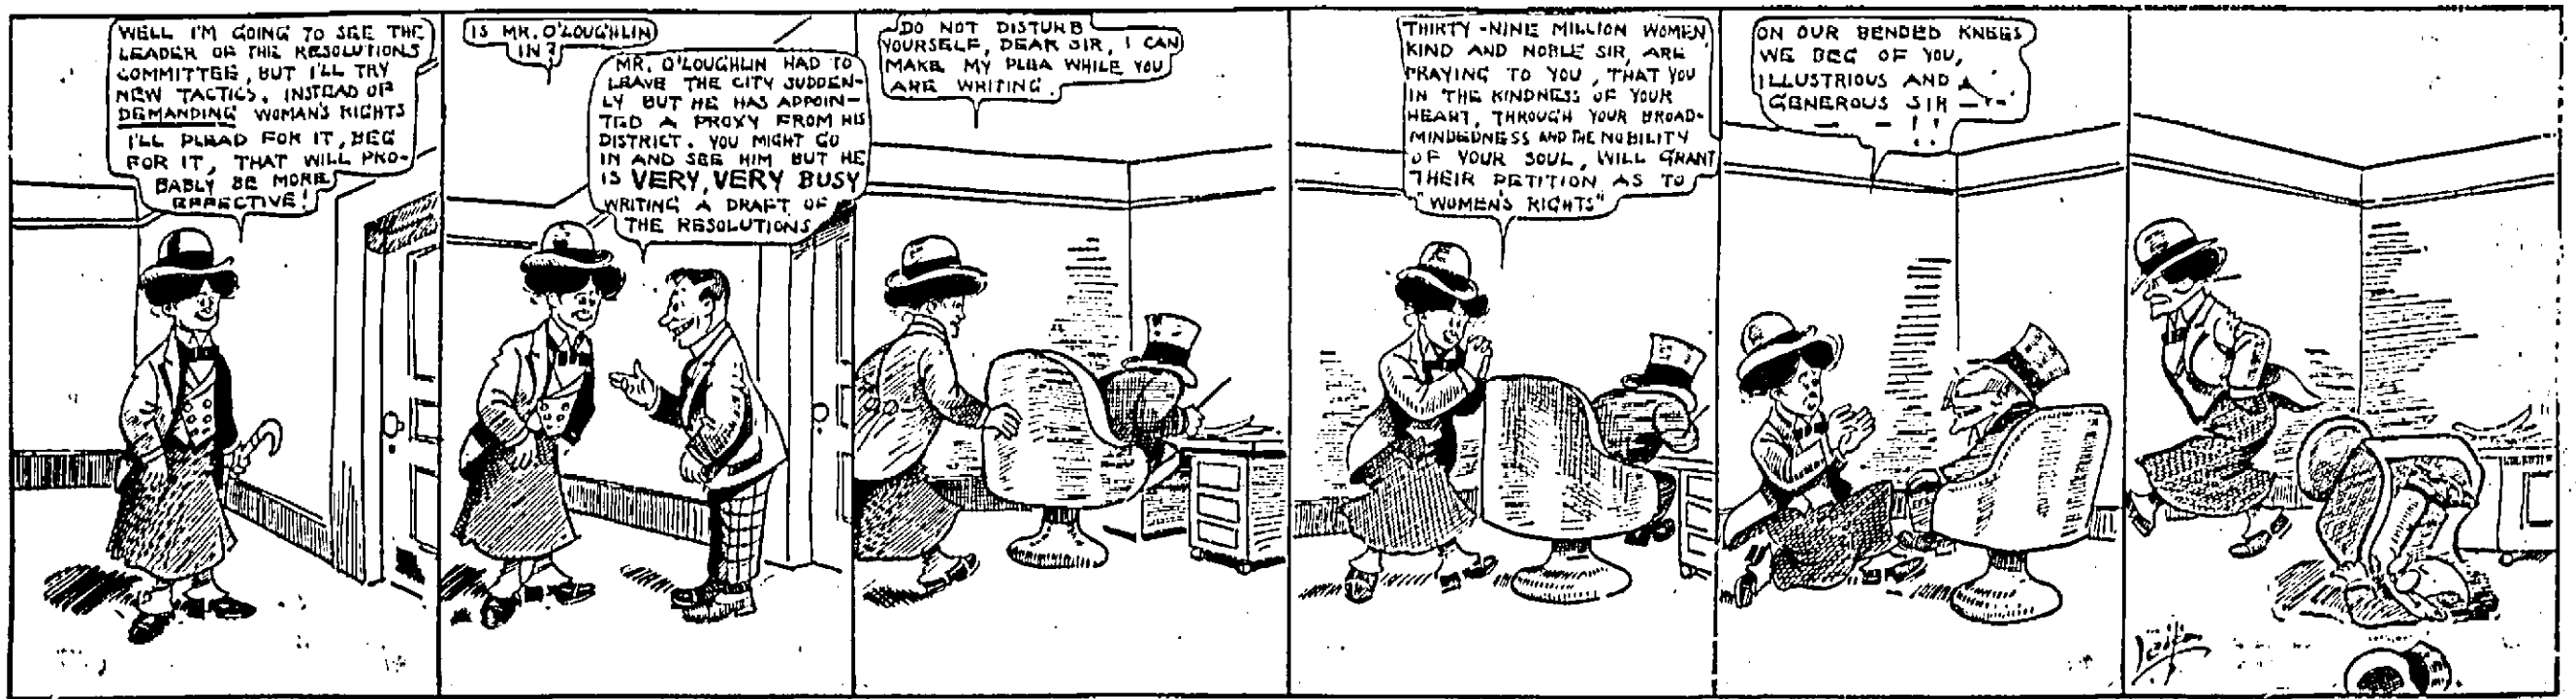

She declares that men and women do not receive the same pay for the same work "because every employer knows that they seldom do the same work. Nothing will not help women to do as much work as a man, as hard work as a man or to receive the same wages as a man. This is not equality of the sexes; it is 'speeding up' the woman to the breaking point to make her reach man's physical level. Were he reduced to hers the work of the world would be seriously handicapped."

It is evident that Mrs. Goodwin has had little experience in the various realities of this big world.

If woman's work is worth less than man's, why is it that men who have employed slaves almost invariably prefer the woman employee? Because she is stouter, more conscientious, more reliable in her hours of work, more anxious to hold her job, and fully equal in ability.

Some employers recognize the superior qualities of women workers, by equal salaries, or even larger salaries than they have paid to men in the same positions. But the majority take advantage of the woman's inability to force equal pay for equal work.

Anything for Peace and Quiet.
A one-armed man wants to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel. Well, let him, provided he says nothing more about it.

"Usin' Tiz Gramma?"

"Yes, Harold, it makes grand. It's feet feel just like yours, free from tiredness, aches and corns!"

"Your papa and mamma, your grandma and your grandpa all use TIZ, Harold. And you'll use it too, when you get to be a man. Then your feet will never hurt, or get tired. That's why we all use TIZ."

Most of us get old, feet first. The hindmost get stale, more worn-out and painful. Corns get harder and more stubborn as the feet become more tender. At a time when old people need their feet most, they can use them less—unless they use TIZ.

If you have never used TIZ before, your first use of it will bring back some of your youthful days. TIZ will make your feet feel young, strong and vigorous. They'll never be tender, never chafe or ache, never get blistered or worn, and your corns, bunions and calluses will be no more. Nothing will do it of can do it like TIZ. Don't experiment with other things; other people have done that for you and they are all now using TIZ.

TIZ acts on a new principle—draws out all the poisonous excretions that make feet trouble.

The Three Guardsmen

... By ...
ALEXANDRE DUMAS

But at the sight of the young man and at the noise of the steps which she heard resound behind her, Mme. Bonclicux uttered a little cry and fled.

D'Artagnan ran after her. He came up to her before she had traversed a third of the street. She sank upon one knee, crying in a choking voice:

"Kill me, if you please, you shall know nothing!"

D'Artagnan raised her by passing his arm round her waist; but, as he felt by her weight she was on the point of fainting, he made haste to reassure her by protestations of devotedness. Mme. Bonclicux recognized the voice. She opened her eyes and uttered a cry of joy.

"Oh, it is you! It is you! Thank God! Thank God!"

"Yes, it is I," said D'Artagnan; "it is I whom God has sent to watch over you."

"Was it with that intention you followed me?" asked the young woman, with a coquettish smile.

"No," said D'Artagnan; "no, I confess it. It was chance that threw me in your way. I saw a female knocking at the window of one of my friends, Aramis."

"Aramis! Who is he?"

"Come, come!"

"This is the first time I ever heard his name pronounced."

"It is the first time, then, that you ever went to that house?"

"Certainly it is."

"It was not him, then, you came to seek?"

"Not the least in the world. Besides, you must have seen that the person I spoke to was a woman."

"Who is she?"

"My dear Mme. Bonclicux, you are charming, but at the same time you are one of the most mysterious women."

"Give me your arm."

"Where are you going?"

"You will see, because you will leave me at the door."

"Shall I wait for you?"

"That will be useless."

"You will return alone, then?"

"Perhaps I may, perhaps I may not."

"But will the person who shall accompany you afterward be a man or a woman?"

"I don't know yet."

"I will wait for your coming out."

"In that case, adieu."

"But you have claimed!"

"The aid of a gentleman, not the watchfulness of a spy."

"Well, madame, I perceive I must not as you please. I promise to do all you wish if you will allow me to accompany you where you are going."

secrets may have an influence over your life these secrets must become mine."

"Beware of what you do!" cried the young woman in a manner so serious, as made D'Artagnan start in spite of himself. "Oh, beside in nothing which concerns me, I exist no longer for you."

"Must Aramis do as much as I, madame?" said D'Artagnan, deeply piqued.

"This is the second or third time, monsieur, that you have repeated that name, and yet I have told you that I do not know him."

"You do not know the man at whose shutter you went and knocked? In deed, madame, you think me too credulous."

"All this will be cleared up at a later period," murmured the young woman. "If you could see my heart," said D'Artagnan, "you would there read so much curiosity that you would pity me and so much love that you would instantly satisfy my curiosity."

"You speak very quickly of love, monsieur."

"That is because love has come suddenly upon me and for the first time and because I am only twenty years old. Listen, I am already upon the scent. About three months ago I was near having a duel with Aramis concerning a handkerchief resembling that you showed to the woman in the house, for a handkerchief marked in the same manner, I am sure. If you were to be arrested with that handkerchief and that handkerchief were to be seized would you not be compromised?"

"In what way? Are not the initials mine—C. B.—Constance Bonclicux?"

"Or Camille de Bois-Tracy?"

"Silence, monsieur! Once again, silence! Ah, since the dangers I incur on my own account cannot stop you, think of those you may yourself run! Monsieur, by the courtesy of a gentleman depart. There—there is midnight striking. That is the hour at which I am expected."

"Madame," said the young man, bowing, "I can refuse nothing asked of me thus. He satisfied, I will depart and will return home instantly."

"Ah, I was quite sure you were a good and brave young man!" said Mme. Bonclicux, holding out her hand to him and placing the other upon the knocker of a little door almost hidden in the wall.

D'Artagnan seized the hand that was held out to him and kissed it ardently. "Ah, I wish I had never seen you!" cried D'Artagnan.

"Well," resumed Mme. Bonclicux in a voice that was almost menacing and pressing the hand of D'Artagnan, who had not left hold of hers—"well, I will not say as much as you do."

By a violent effort D'Artagnan sprang away, running, while Mme. Bonclicux, who had done at the shutter, three light and regular taps. Then when he had gained the angle of the street he turned. The door had been opened and shut again. The mercer's pretty wife had disappeared.

D'Artagnan pursued his way. In five minutes he was in the Rue des Fosseux.

"Four Athos!" said he. "He will never guess what all this means. He will have fallen asleep waiting for me or else he will have returned home, where he will have learned that a woman had been there. A woman at Athos' house! After all," continued D'Artagnan, "there was certainly one in Aramis' house. All this is very strange. I should like to know how it will all end." The last sentence was spoken aloud.

"Badly, monsieur—badly!" replied a voice, which the young man recognized as that of Planchet. "M. Athos is arrested. He was found in your lodging. They took him for you."

"And by whom was he arrested?"

"By the guards when the black men you put to flight fetched."

"Why did he not tell them his name? Why did he not tell them he knew nothing about this affair?"

"It took care not to do so, monsieur. On the contrary, he came up to me and said: 'It is your master that wants his liberty at this moment and not I, since he knows everything and I know nothing. They will believe he is arrested, and that will give him time. In three days I will tell them who I am, and they cannot fail to set me at liberty again.' Four conveyed him away, I don't know where—to the Bastille or Fort l'Evreux. Two remained with the black men, who rummaged every place out and took all the papers. The two last mounted guard at the door during this examination. Then, when all was over, they went away, leaving the house empty and the doors open."

"And Porthos and Aramis?"

"I could not find them. They did not come."

"Well, don't stir. If they come tell them what has happened. Let them wait for me at the Pommé de Pin."

It would be dangerous. The house may be watched. I will run to M. de Treville to tell him all this and will join them there."

"Very well, monsieur," said Planchet.

"But you will remain, will you not? You are not afraid?" said D'Artagnan, coming back to recommend courage to his lackey.

"No satisfied, monsieur. There is nothing I would not do to prove to monsieur that I am attached to him."

"Good!" said D'Artagnan, and with all the swiftness of his legs, already a little fatigued, however, with the exercise of the day and night, he directed his course toward M. de Treville's.

M. de Treville was not at his hotel. His company was on guard at the Louvre. He was at the Louvre with his company. He must get at M. de Treville. It was of importance that he should be informed of what was going on. D'Artagnan resolved to endeavor to get into the Louvre.

He therefore went down the Rue des Petits Augustins and came up to the quay in order to take the Pont Neuf. As he gained the top of the Rue Guenegaud he saw two persons coming whose appearance very much struck him. One was a man and the other a woman, the latter very much like Mme. Bonclicux in size and step, the former could be nobody but Aramis.

Besides, the woman had on that black cloak whose outline D'Artagnan could still see reflected upon the shutter of the Rue de Valenciennes and upon the door of the Rue de la Harpe.

And, still further, the man wore the uniform of a musketeer.

They took the bridge. That was D'Artagnan's road, as D'Artagnan was going to the Louvre. D'Artagnan followed them.

He had not gone twenty steps before he became convinced that the woman was really Mme. Bonclicux and the man Aramis.

He felt himself doubly betrayed. Mme. Bonclicux had declared to him by all that was holy that she did not know Aramis, and a quarter of an hour after having made this assertion he found her hanging on the arm of Aramis. D'Artagnan resolved to unravel the mystery.

The young man and woman perceived they were watched and redoubled their speed. D'Artagnan determined upon his course. He passed them, then returned, so as to meet them exactly before the Samaritaine, which was illuminated by a lamp which threw its light over all that part of the bridge.

"What do you want, monsieur?" demanded the musketeer, drawing back a step. He had a foreign accent.

"It is not Aramis!" cried D'Artagnan.

"No, monsieur, it is not Aramis; and by your exclamation I perceive you have mistaken me for another. Allow me, then, to pass on, since it is not with me you have anything to do."

"You are right, monsieur, it is not with you I have anything to do. It is with madame here."

"Ah," said Mme. Bonclicux in a tone of reproach, "ah, monsieur, I had the promise of a soldier and the word of a gentleman. I thought I might have depended upon them!"

"Take my arm, madame," said the stranger, "and let us proceed on our way."

The musketeer advanced two steps and pushed D'Artagnan aside with his hand.

D'Artagnan made a spring backward and drew his sword. At the same time and with the rapidity of lightning the unknown drew his.

"In the name of heaven, milord!" cried Mme. Bonclicux, throwing herself between the combatants and seizing the sword with her hands.

"Milord!" cried D'Artagnan, enlightened by a sudden idea, "milord! Pardon me, monsieur, but are you not?"

"Milord, the Duke of Buckingham!" said Mme. Bonclicux in an undertone. "And now you may ruin us all."

"Milord—madame, I ask a hundred pardons! But I love her, milord, and was jealous. You know what it is to love, milord. Pardon me, and then tell me how I can risk my life to serve your grace?"

"You are a brave young man!" said Buckingham, holding out his hand to D'Artagnan, who pressed it respectfully. "You offer me your services. With the same frankness I accept them. Follow us at a distance of twenty paces to the Louvre, and if any one watches us slay him!"

Fortunately D'Artagnan had no opportunity to give the duke this proof of his devotion, and the young woman and the handsome musketeer entered the Louvre without meeting with any interruption.

As for D'Artagnan, he immediately repaired to the cabinet of the Pommé de Pin, where he found Porthos and Aramis, who were waiting for him. But without giving them any explanation of the alarm and inconvenience he had caused them he told them that he had formulated the affair alone, in which he had for a moment thought he should stand in need of their assistance.

CHAPTER IX.
George Villiers, Duke of Buckingham.

Mme. BONClicux and the duke entered the Louvre without difficulty. Once entered into the interior of the court, the duke and the young woman kept along the wall for about twenty-five steps. This space passed, Mme. Bonclicux pushed a little aside door, open by day, but generally closed at night. After traversing various passages she introduced a key into a lock, opened a door and pushed the duke into an apartment lighted only by a night lamp, saying: "Remain here, milord duke. Some one will come." She then went out by the same door, which she locked, so that the duke found himself a prisoner.

Russia is the country that has made fewest changes in its stamps. In nearly 50 years Russia has brought out only eight distinctive designs. The most extravagant in the production of new designs are the Central American republics. For example, Salvador, with a population of 225,000 and an area smaller than that of New Jersey, issued a new and distinctive series of postage stamps each year between 1890 and 1900.

Kidney Trouble Overcome by the Great Treatment

I have been a sufferer for years with kidney and bladder trouble and took almost everything a drug store contained without obtaining any benefit.

I suffered so that I became utterly discouraged, as I could not sleep, was always dizzy and had a headache all the time. I saw one of your advertisements and as a last resort, decided to try your Swamp-Root. I am now taking the third bottle and feel like a new woman, sleep well and have no pains whatever.

I strongly advise all sufferers to take the only real cure for kidney and bladder trouble, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root was a God-send to me.

You may publish this letter if you wish so that it may be the means of bringing some poor sufferers back to health.

Letter to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Birmingham, N. Y.

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do For You.

Send to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Birmingham, N. Y., for a sample bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling all about the kidneys and bladder. When writing be sure mention Gazette, regular fifty cent and one-dollar size bottles, for sale at all drug stores.

And All It Implies.

"O for the men of old!" sings a lady poet in one of the current magazines. It is our impression that the men of old demanded a good deal of submission on the part of their wives.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Saves Labor; Does Better Work.
It is claimed for a newly invented fiber shedding machine introduced in Mexico that it will do the work of fifty laborers, and do cleaner work than can be done by hand.
